March 31, 2013

This list is designed to help treatment planners/case managers find resources to keep children with severe emotional or behavioral disorders in community settings. Many children and families have unique challenges and individualized needs.

Alaska has resources housed in different parts of the system: this list provides an overview of resources with links to information about services and supports for children and their families.

How can I get a young child assessed for social/emotional or developmental issues?

OCS Infant Learning Programs (ILP): The Office of Children's Services has a statewide network of ILP, which screen and treat children birth to three for delays (including social-emotional delays).

- Learn about ILP: <http://hss.state.ak.us/ocs/InfantLearning/information/default.htm>
- Make a Referral: <http://hss.state.ak.us/ocs/InfantLearning/referral/default.htm>
- Find an ILP Program: http://hss.state.ak.us/ocs/InfantLearning/program/program\_dir.htm

Early Childhood Mental Health Consultation (ECMHC): ECMHC provides individual and programmatic consultation to families, childcare or early learning to improve services for young children showing social emotional delays or challenging behaviors.

- Anchorage ECMHC Program: Anchorage Community Mental Health Services, Josh Arvidson, (907)762-2817
- Fairbanks ECMHC Program: Alaska Center for Children and Adults, Susan Kessler (866)456-4003
- Juneau ECMHC Program: Juneau Youth Services, Kathleen Rhea, (907)523-6533

Are there services to help children with emotional, behavioral or other disorders who are struggling at school?

Special Education Planning: Children with a developmental, emotional or behavioral condition that affects their ability to learn in school can receive an Individual Education Plan (IEP). To determine eligibility, the parent must consent to an evaluation of the child. Contact the principal of the school or the special education director for the district to request an evaluation.

Where can a family get help to access services, learn skills to parent a child with challenging behaviors, and get peer support?

Peer Navigation and Support: Peer navigation assists families to learn about behavioral health treatment, obtain parenting skills, get peer support, and access necessary services. The primary target population is children with severe emotional and behavioral disturbances and their families.

- Alaska Youth and Family Network: Children with behavioral health needs and their families - <http://www.ayfn.org/> , Phone (907) 770-4979
- Stone Soup Group: Children with special needs and their families - <http://www.stonesoupgroup.org/> Phone (907) 561-3701 or toll free (877) 786-7327
- Other Family Support and Navigation: Other communities have also developed behavioral health peer and family support groups: look on-line or in the local phone book.

How can a child or adolescent with an emotional or behavioral disorder or their family access behavioral health services?

Behavioral Health Grant and Medicaid Funded Outpatient and Residential Services: The Alaska Division of Behavioral Health (DBH) has a statewide network of grantees who provide behavioral health services. In rural areas, grantees deliver services on an itinerant basis and via telemedicine. Services include outpatient treatment and residential treatment in some communities. DBH program staff manages grants and can provide information about behavioral health resources. Agency links are also available on-line.

- DBH Treatment and Recovery Grantees: <http://dhss.alaska.gov/dbh/Pages/default.aspx>
- DBH Program Managers: <http://dhss.alaska.gov/dbh/Pages/TreatmentRecovery/default.aspx>
- DBH Brochure: Supports for Alaska's Children with Severe Emotional Disturbance: http://dhss.alaska.gov/dbh/Documents/PDF/200811\_sed\_%20brochure.pdf

Behavioral Rehabilitation Services (BRS) Residential Treatment: DBH also has a statewide network of BRS grantees who provide short-term crisis stabilization and long-term behavioral health residential treatment. Some programs have on-site schools and a high level of structure while others allow children to attend school and community activities.

- BRS Bed Availability Tracking: <http://www.hss.state.ak.us/ocs/ResidentialCare/facilities/statewide.aspx>

Residential Psychiatric Treatment Center (RPTC): RPTC provide intensive long-term behavioral health residential treatment for children when less restrictive behavioral health services have proven insufficient. Placement in out-of-state RPTC through Alaska Medicaid requires a determination that in-state treatment is unavailable or inappropriate.

- RPTC Bed Availability Tracking: <http://www.qualishealth.org/healthcare-professionals/alaska-medicaid-behavioral-health/provider-resources>

Are there behavioral health resources for children in rural communities?

Tribal Community Behavioral Health Centers: Many tribes operate grant and Medicaid funded community-behavioral health centers to deliver outpatient services to children, youth and families. DBH program managers oversee these grants.

- DBH Treatment and Recovery Grantees: <http://dhss.alaska.gov/dbh/Pages/default.aspx>
- DBH Program Managers: <http://dhss.alaska.gov/dbh/Pages/TreatmentRecovery/default.aspx>

Alaska Tribal Health System Members The Alaska tribal health system is a statewide voluntary affiliation of more than 30 tribal organizations providing health services to Alaska Natives and American Indians. The entire ATHS serves approximately 130,000 Alaska Natives and provides comprehensive services across the entire continuum of care.

- Alaska Tribal Health System Members:
<https://www.alaskatribalhealth.org/about/contacts/index.cfm>

The Alaska Native Corporations often have educational, vocational, counseling, health services and other programs for Native children. Some corporations have a non-profit organization.

- Alaska Native Regional For-Profit Organizations:

Indian Child Welfare Act: The State of Alaska Department of Health & Social Services (DHSS), Office of Children's Services (OCS) strongly supports the Indian Child Welfare (ICWA) and continues to build federal ICWA mandates into all levels of OCS Child Welfare.

- OCS ICWA Website: <http://dhss.alaska.gov/ocs/Pages/icwa/default.aspx>
- Community Partner Contacts: <http://dhss.alaska.gov/ocs/Pages/icwa/contact-partners.aspx>
- OCS ICWA Specialists: <http://dhss.alaska.gov/ocs/Pages/icwa/contact.aspx>

Frontline Remote Access Clinic: The Frontline Remote Access Clinic gives primary care and behavioral health providers' quick access to behavioral health consultation and treatment. Providers must have videoconference connectivity.

- Frontline Remote Access Clinic: For more information, contact Jaymes Gonzales at 907-269-7278. To make an appointment go to: http://dhss.alaska.gov/dbh/Pages/api/remote\_appointment.aspx

Is consultation available for a doctor/prescriber around use of psychiatric medications for children?

Alaska Partnership Access Line (APAL): APAL provides primary care practitioners with free consultation on use of psychiatric medications for children in community settings in order to expand use of best practices.

- APAL: <http://dhss.alaska.gov/dbh/Pages/api/a-pal.aspx>, Kathleen Myers, MD, MPH, Seattle Children's Hospital, at (206)987-1663 or Kathleen.myers@seattlechildrens.org

Are there services to assist transition-age youth?

Office of Children’s Services (OCS) Resources: OCS provides education and training resources, life skill assessment, family resources and independent living funds to assist children in the custody of the state to transition successfully to adulthood.

- OCS Independent Living Links: <http://www.hss.state.ak.us/ocs/IndependentLiving/default.htm>

Peer Support Services: Peer support services, mentoring and recovery planning assistance are available to youth who experience behavioral health challenges or who have been in state services through several organizations – and some community behavioral health centers have also developed additional peer support services.

- Alaska Youth and Family Network: Provides peer support, on-line support, young adult parenting classes and a “Youth Move” chapter. <http://www.ayfn.org/wp/>
- Facing Foster Care Alaska (FFCA): FFCA is a group of foster youth and alumni who work together on advocacy and meet quarterly in their regions. <http://www.alaskacasa.org/FFCA.aspx>
- Alaska Youth and Parent Foundation POWER Program: The POWER program does outreach and provides training to youth at the free Anchorage POWER Teen Center. <http://www.aypfalaska.org/howeare/peeroutreachworkers.html>

Transition to Independence Process (TIP): TIP is an evidence-supported process for working with transition age youth who experience severe behavioral health disturbances. A number of agencies have developed (or begun developing) TIP services: Denali Family Services (Anchorage and Matsu), Anchorage Community Mental Health (Anchorage), Juneau Youth Services (Juneau), Presbyterian Hospitality House (Anchorage), Sitka Youth Services (Sitka) and Central Peninsula Behavioral Health (Soldotna).

- DBH Treatment and Recovery Grantees: <http://dhss.alaska.gov/dbh/Pages/default.aspx>

Client Assistance Program (CAP): The CAP at the Disability Law Center helps individuals with disabilities who experience problems when applying for or receiving rehabilitation or independent living services. The CAP assists with information and advocacy.

- CAP Website: <http://www.dlcak.org/html/about-us/client-assistance-program.php>

Postsecondary Transition Program: The TAPESTRY Program provides students 18 – 21 with intellectual / cognitive disabilities with a postsecondary college experience to develop self-advocacy skills, engage in career exploration, and develop social skills to lead to employment or enrollment in an educational program.

TAPESTRY Program: <http://www.uaa.alaska.edu/centerforhumandevlopment/tapestry/index.cfm>

Are there resources to purchase an individualized service to keep a child with a severe emotional/behavioral disorder in a community setting?

Office of Children’s Services (OCS): Children and youth in OCS foster care, or who are former foster children, have access to education and training vouchers and independent living funds.

- OCS Independent Living Funds: <http://www.hss.state.ak.us/ocs/IndependentLiving/ILFunds.htm>
- OCS Education and Training Vouchers: <http://www.hss.state.ak.us/ocs/IndependentLiving/ETV.htm>

Individualized Service Agreements (ISA): ISA pay for items needed to transition a child home from (or to avoid placement in) a residential setting when no other funding source is available. (Examples: unbreakable windows, educational tutoring, a bus pass). ISA are available through DBH grantees, the Office of Children’s Services, or the Division of Juvenile Justice.
